CYCLING ATLAS

TOURISM
ORGANIZATION OF THE MAZOVIA
REGION

Dear readers, the cycling tours featured in this atlas weren't chosen by chance. You'll find a mix of longer and shorter routes: some are ambitious challenges for the determined and experienced, while the others are light and recreational, perfect for pure enjoyment.

We've highlighted the true gems of cycling in Mazovia, also making an effort to uncover or reintroduce routes that might not yet be on your radar. With 25 carefully curated tours across Mazovia, there's something here to suit every mood, skill level, and preference.

Of course, these 25 routes are just a glimpse of what Mazovia has to offer. Each year, new cycling routes emerge, including beautifully prepared paths that guide you from cityscapes to lush green meadows. These routes lead through stunning landscape parks, past historic Mazovian landmarks, and into places rich with cultural and historical significance. You might be surprised by how close these remarkable destinations are reachable simply – by bike. Feel free to explore, be inspired, and create your own variations of these trips. To help you plan, take advantage of this atlas, the practical PTTK (Polish Tourist and Sightseeing Society) portal "Szlaki turystyczne Mazowsza" (mazowsze.szlaki.pttk.pl), or the exciting challenges available at "Mazowiecki Gravel" (mazowieckigravel.pl).

Finally, remember to "cycle smart." Even on quiet forest paths or low-traffic roads, stay alert, avoid creating risky situations, and look out for your fellow riders – especially if you're cycling with children.

Enjoy the trip!

PTTK

Practical:

- Start of the route near the Powsin – Park Kultury 01 bus stop, at Opieński Street.
- At Opieński Street in Powsin there is a large car park with a bicycle repair station.
- Connections with the Mazovian Railways: railway station Góra Kalwaria – Warszawa.
- A resting spot: benches by the pond on Rybacka Street in Piaseczno.
- Next to the route in the Chojnowskie Forests, the picturesque ‘Forest Footpath along the banks of the Zielona River’.
- In Góra Kalwaria, on the route, a modern pumptrack.

Surface (approximately):

- unpaved: 5 km
- compacted gravel: 5 km
- asphalt: 20 km

Route:

The trip begins in Powsin, near Warsaw, at a wooden gate located at the junction of Rydzowa and Opieńki Streets. From there, a short forest trail leads to the starting point: a fork in the road where the blue Nadwiślański Cycling Route veers left. Our route, however, heads straight along a wide, beaten forest path. Leaving behind the recreational area and a spacious campfire glade, the journey is immersed in forest scenery, occasionally interrupted by glimpses of villages and meadows.

At the first major fork, turn left and continue straight until you reach the outskirts of Kierszek. Following a southerly direction, you'll pass through Józefostaw and Julianów before arriving in Piaseczno. Here, the town's highlights include the Mazovian Dukes' Park with its extensive gym and playground, as well as the historic market square featuring the town hall and a distinctive sculpture by Józef Wilkoń. For railway enthusiasts, a short detour to the Piaseczno-Grójec Narrow Gauge Railway station is well worth it.

As you leave Piaseczno, the urban landscape fades into meadows, and soon you're back in the forest, entering the Chojnowski Landscape Park. This area offers a wealth of natural beauty. A great spot to take a break is Zimne Doły, a recreational glade with benches and a map of an educational path through the Uroczysko Stephana Nature Reserve. Adventure seekers can also explore the "Skarby Zimnych Dołów" quest, with details available on the Mazovian Landscape Parks Complex website.

CHOJNOWSKIE FORESTS

"Forest footpath along the banks of the Zielona River"

Góra Kalwaria

Góra Kalwaria captivates visitors with its rich history and cultural heritage. The central market square, surrounded by historic temples, and remnants of its Jewish legacy, like the restored "butcheries" and Jewish cemetery, add to its charm.

Founded as "New Jerusalem" in 1670, Góra Kalwaria was a major pilgrimage center. From 1859, it became a key hub for Jewish religious life in the Kingdom of Poland, known in Yiddish as Ger. The town is closely linked to the tzaddik Icchak Meir Rothenberg, whose legacy endures, and whose grave can be visited in the Jewish cemetery.

Piaseczno-Grójec Narrow Gauge Railway

The narrow gauge railway, dating to the late 19th century, is a top attraction for all age tourists. Visitors can enjoy a guided tour of Piaseczno City Station, a model railway workshop, and a picturesque trip on the Piaseczno-Tarczyn-Piaseczno route. The hour-long trip showcases stunning countryside views, with a key stop at the Runów tourist point, set in a tranquil forest glade. Guests can relax in shelters with tables and benches or gather around a bonfire for a unique experience.

Culture Park

Back on the main route, the trip continues through the forest, transitioning onto a smooth asphalt road near Chojnow and Nowinki. Passing Wojciechowice and Dobiesz, you'll encounter one final forest stretch of several kilometers before approaching Góra Kalwaria. The town greets you from the west, leading past the railway station, town center, and charming market square with old-town buildings. Your destination is the Józef Piłsudski Square, a fitting end to this picturesque cycling adventure.

Botanical Garden of the Polish Academy of Sciences

Powsin's Botanical Garden, managed by the Polish Academy of Sciences, is a must-visit for nature lovers. Covering 30 hectares, it offers a captivating experience with highlights like greenhouses featuring tropical plants, including citrus trees and Japanese camellias in many varieties.

An impressive collection of cacti in various shapes and sizes and an arboretum showcasing rare and unusual woody plants further enhance the garden's appeal.

Nature and Forestry Education Centre in Powsin

The center hosts classes and workshops about the forest ecosystem, its inhabitants, and the changing seasons. Around the modern facility, educational boards and interactive wooden toys encourage exploration and learning. Young visitors will love the “natural” playground, complete with climbing frames, slides, and other attractions that combine fun with nature's beauty.

The route is marked in green, but several connecting routes (yellow) provide a convenient way to reach the starting point (or to shorten the route).

GPX

- Practical:
- It is possible to rent bicycles at many points along the route (Julinek Park, Leszno, Palmiry).
 - The beginning of the route next to several public transport stops (bus stops at Estrady Street).
 - The largest resting glades in the vicinity of the route: Granica, Jakubów, Lipków, Opaleń, Rostoka, Pocięcha.

Surface (approximately):

- compacted gravel: 53 km
- asphalt: 80 km

Route:

The trip begins near Wólka Węglowa, where Rękopis Street curves into the wilderness. Starting at a small signposted car park, we leave the red route behind and follow the green one heading west. Along the way, we pass a plaque commemorating died soldiers and, further on, the statue of Mary at Laskowa Mountain.

Entering the village of Laski, the route takes us along Partyzantów Street and then Dolina Józafata Street, passing the war cemetery before continuing on a narrow path into Izabelin. After a tranquil forest stretch, we come across a well-maintained resting glade and arrive in Lipków.

From Lipków, the route leads through charming villages like Koczargi Stare, Wojcieszyn, and Zalesie. Turning off the Trakt Królewski (Royal Route) onto Spacerowa Street, we reach Stanisławów. Heading west, we cross Zaborów and continue through a forested section to Leszno. The route then leads past Julinek Park and into dense forest areas, including the „Zamczysko” Area of Strict Protection with its amazing wooden viewing platform and Granica, home to the Open-Air Museum of Forest Architecture.

Near Komorów, the route shifts westward before turning south at Budki Żelazowskie, bringing us to Żelazowa Wola. Here, visiting Frédéric Chopin's Birthplace and the surrounding park is

Cemetery and Museum at Palmiry

Palmiry and its surrounding area bear a profound connection to the martyrdom of the Polish nation. The “Palmirska Polana Śmierci” (Palmiry Death Glade) stands as a grim reminder of Nazi executions of Polish citizens during World War II. Nearby, the Palmiry Museum – Memorial Site offers deeper insight into the scale of these atrocities, often compared to the massacre of the Polish military elite and intelligentsia in Katyn. Housed in a modernist building with an austere, somber interior, the museum features a permanent exhibition dedicated to the Nazi crimes committed in Palmiry and the Kampinos Forest.

Brochów church

The Church of Saint Roch and Saint John the Baptist is a stunning Gothic-Renaissance structure, with its imposing red walls standing out against the surrounding landscape. This three-nave basilica was built as a reconstruction of an original Gothic church. What immediately catches the eye are the three large cylindrical towers—two flanking the west entrance and one above the presbytery apse. The church's design clearly reflects a defensive purpose, and remnants of a moat can still be found on the side of the Bzura River. Fryderyk Chopin was baptized here.

a highlight, perfect for a couple of hours. If the trip isn't planned for two days, a brief stop may suffice before returning to the regional road and heading north.

The route to Brochów leads along a mixture of asphalt and gravel paths, and the winding Bzura River adds a picturesque charm. From Brochów the journey leads through the village of Tułowice, then turns northeast for 16 kilometres to Nowiny. Passing through forests, marshes and peat bogs, we reach Leoncin.

The final stretch leads east and south, passing through Cybulice Duże, Małocice, Kaliszki, and Dziekanów Leśny. Along the way, the route stops at Palmiry – an essential and moving memorial site.

Historical hydro-technical facilities in KPN

The geological structure, the terrain in Kampinoski National Park, its hydrological network and distinct plant communities, including marshes, contribute to the need for human intervention in order to properly retain and manage water in the protected area. Notably, the Park is home to various hydrotechnical facilities, such as sluices, weirs, bridges, canals, and thresholds. Most of these structures were built in the postwar years, and many new hydrotechnical projects are currently under development.

Kampinos National Park

Covering over 38,000 hectares of some of the most valuable natural landscapes, the Kampinos National Park includes the Vistula proglacial valley dunes and marshy areas. It's a true haven for wildlife enthusiasts and those seeking recreation in nature. The park provides a safe home for many animal species, including elk, beavers, and lynxes, as well as rare and protected birds. Visitors can enjoy active relaxation along specially designated routes for horseback riding, trekking, and, in winter, cross-country skiing. The park's areas are easily accessible, with well-maintained glades, shelters, and recreational sites for visitors to enjoy.

03 Kurpie routes

Route 9 km/15 km

Loop: Mazurian Route – vicinity of Podgórze Nature Reserve – Mazurian Route

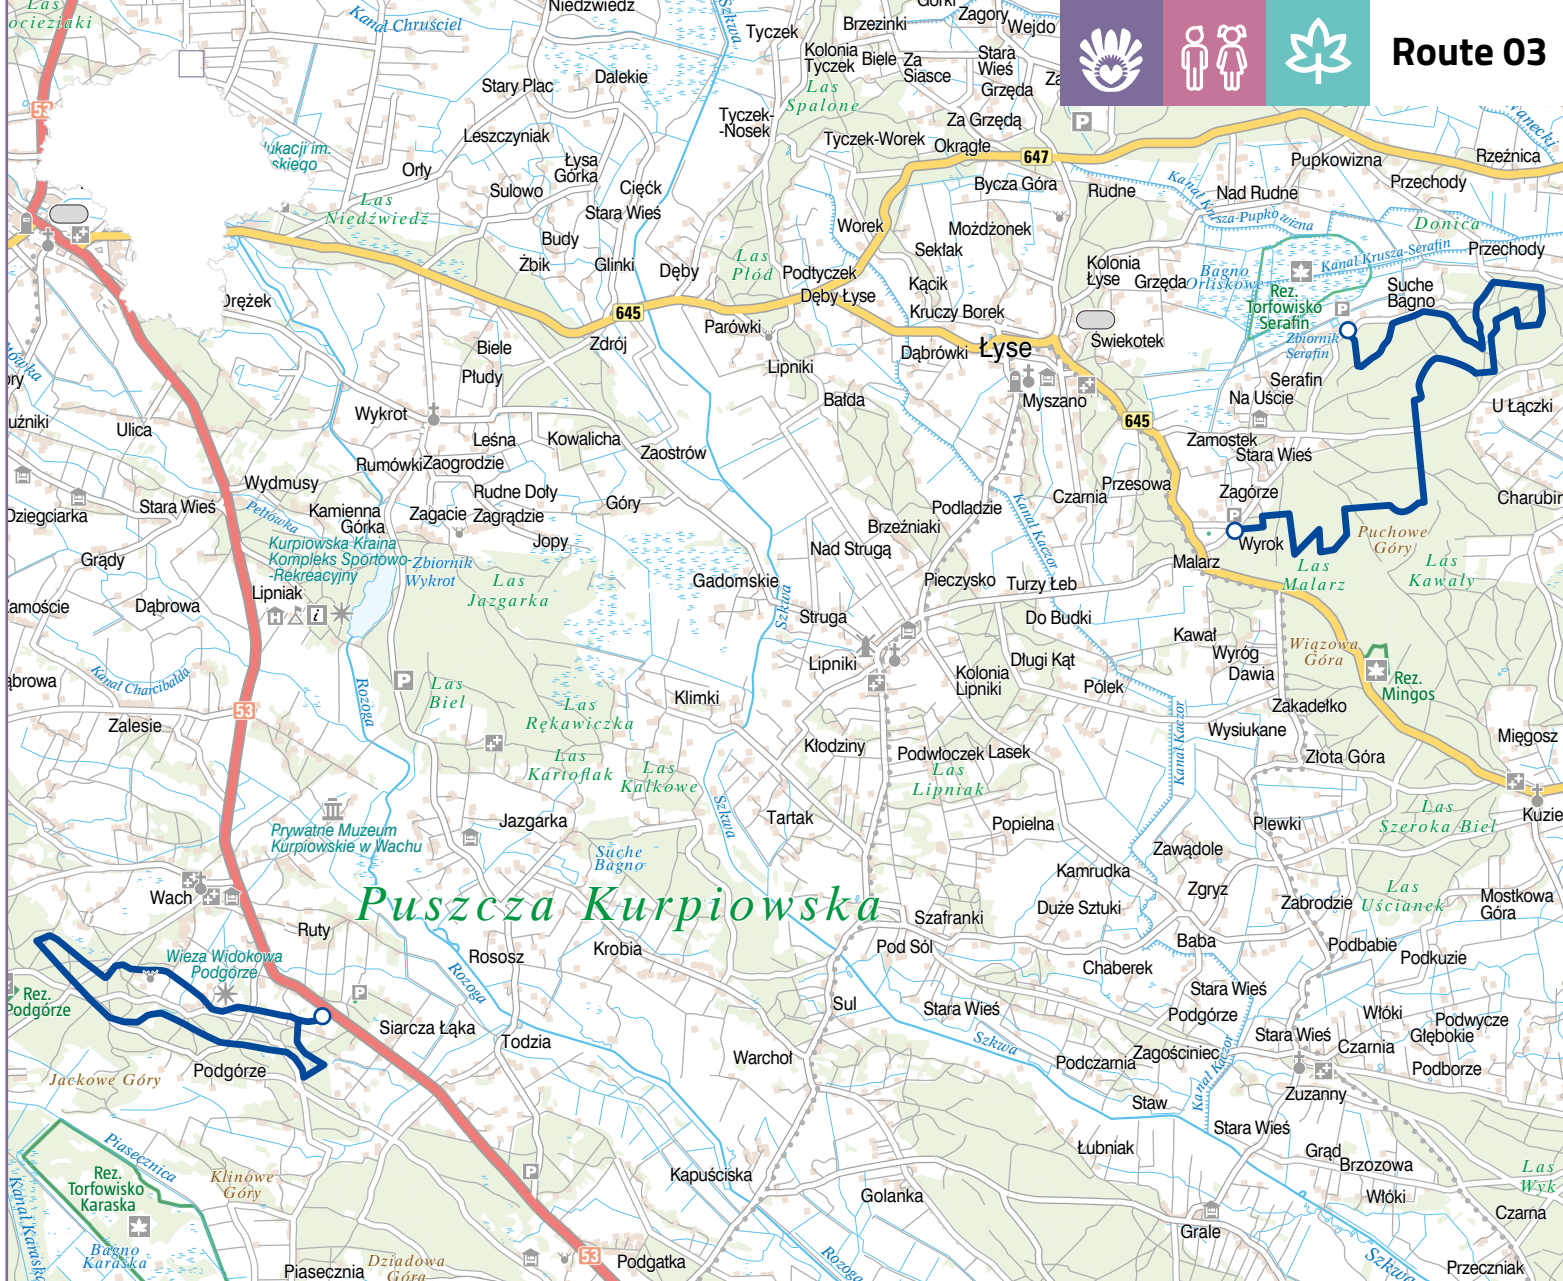

in Wach

Gate at Myszyniec Forest District: Forest cycling route Lake Krusko – Serafin Peat Bog Nature Reserve.

Forest cycling route Lake Krusko

Practical:

- There are numerous open-air tourist shelter and a viewing tower on the route of the forest cycling route 'Lake Krusko'.
- Ostrołęka, Myszyniec, Wach, Wykrot – good starting points for cycling tours in the Kurpie region.
- The nearest railway station PKP Ostrołęka

Surface (approximately):

- in Wach
 - unpaved: 4 km
 - path: 3 km
 - asphalt: 2 km
- Forest cycling route Lake Krusko
 - unpaved: 15 km

Cycling technique:

Both routes are easy, requiring no special skills. They follow well-beaten dirt roads. Be particularly careful on the asphalt roads between one route and the other.

Route:

The Kurpie region is one of the most distinctive areas of Mazovia. Known for its vibrant folklore, folk traditions, and rituals that are still celebrated today, the region also boasts a rich noble heritage, particularly in the southern part of Ostrołęka County. The local natural beauty is enhanced by vast pine forests, wet meadows that provide shelter to birds, and fields crossed by meandering rivers and smaller watercourses.

For those seeking an active getaway, the Kurpiowska Kraina (Kurpie Land) around Lake Wykrot, along with numerous picturesque agrotourism farms, offers an excellent starting point. For cyclists, the areas of forests named Puszcza Biała and Puszcza Zielona provide an ideal setting for relaxation. While the region offers many peaceful routes, two short trails stand out.

The first, called “W Wachu,” is a forest loop located a few kilometers south of a traditional Kurpie village, famous for its regional buildings and open-air museum. Marked in black, the loop begins at the Mazurian Route in Podgórze. From there, it leads to a crossroads and a loop that can be followed from either north or south. The route is short, but it can be extended by another loop at the fifth kilometer, which heads west toward the small Foothills Nature Reserve. This section features the rare and picturesque spieces – „sosna kołnierzykowa” (collared pine). The second route is the Lake Krusko forest route, about 22 km long, clearly signposted with direction indicators. This route stretches for approximately 15 km through a well-maintained forest path. It starts near the Serafin forester’s lodge, at a distinctive gate framed with wooden logs and plaques, next to a young „Pope Oak,” one of many trees planted by foresters to commemorate the Polish Pope’s pontificate.

The route meanders through dense forests, heathland, and areas with hurricane-stricken young trees, all set on vast sandy dunes.

Serafin Moor Nature Reserve

Forest cycling route

Wach

A Kurpie village located a few kilometres outside Kadzidło, in the heart of the Kurpie Forest. The old houses are situated some distance from the road, in a landscape of fields and meadows. One of the greatest attractions of the village and the region is the private museum, set up on the grounds of a genuine farm. It is run by Mr and Mrs Bziukiewicz, who have gathered a huge collection of objects, tools and equipment for everyday use, forestry and agricultural work. Visitors can also admire old clothes, decorations or giant Easter palms.

Pope Oak

Before entering the Krusko Lake forest cycling route, it’s worth noting the ‘Pope Oak,’ planted on June 20, 2006. Although it is still a young tree and far from the oldest and most powerful representatives of the species, it already delights and creates a unique atmosphere. On the 80th anniversary of the State Forests, their employees collected over 500 acorns from Poland’s oldest oak tree, ‘Chrobry.’ These acorns were blessed by the Pope, and from them have grown many magnificent trees across Poland. One of these trees now stands proudly in the heart of the Kurpie Forest.

Along the way, there are 17 thematic stops with educational boards, and stylish wooden shelters with tables. The highlight of the route is Lake Krusko, a relic of a once larger lake, now overgrown and shallowed due to past intensive drainage. The area is protected as part of the Serafin Moor Nature Reserve.

Access to this area is limited and the birds that live here, should not be disturbed. While the wooden footbridge once offered a view of the marshland, it is now overgrown, revealing the lush local vegetation. There are plans to restore it.

Serafin Moor Nature Reserve

The reserve protects a transitional bog, home to rare and protected flora and fauna. Notable species include the round-leaved sundew, blood-red and spotted orchids, marsh helleborine, and the delicate woolly adelgid. The wetland area provides an ideal environment for nesting and feeding birds. The Serafin reserve is a sanctuary for crane families, meadow pipits, quail, and corncrakes.

Kurpie Farmstead in Kadzidlo

The open-air museum in Kadzidlo comprises numerous Kurpie cottages from the end of the 19th and the beginning of the 20th century, situated in the shade of tall pines. Some of the houses are decorated with wooden folk sculptures, others have authentic cultivated gardens. Entering the houses, one has the impression that the hosts will be back any moment – there are beds with prepared bedclothes, tables covered with tablecloths, pots on the cooker and colourful ‘spiders’ under the low ceilings.

04 Orońsko area

Route 34 km

Guzów – Chronów – Chałupki Łaziskie – Zaborowie – Zastronie – Wysoka – Bąków – Ciepła – Łaziska – Orońsko – Guzów

An alternative green route in the northern section, leading to Chronów, offers a scenic route, though it can be difficult to pass through in spring.

OROŃSKO
Skatepark

Szabasówka

It is a short (24 km) and very picturesque river of southern Mazovia, the right tributary of the Radomka River. Its most beautiful sections cut through the wild wilderness of the Chałupki Łaziska area. In some places, the riverbed spills into an unregulated swampy stream, an ideal habitat for the rich world of the surrounding ornithofauna.

Centre of Polish Sculpture in Orońsko

This unique place on Poland's map offers a hands-on experience with contemporary art. The permanent exhibition and Sculpture Park showcase works by renowned artists, including Magdalena Abakanowicz. The museum complex, which includes the building itself, an orangery, a chapel, and a coach house, also features sculpture workshops where visitors can watch artists at work. The Jozef Brandt Palace opens its doors to reveal its 19th-century interiors, while the surrounding historic park provides a peaceful spot to take a stroll and relax. An inviting café awaits visitors, adding to the charm to this place.

Guzów

This rather small village in the Szydłowiec district was a private nobleman's village centuries ago. Between 1510 and 1515 it belonged to Mikołaj Dzik of Doliwa Coat of Arms. In July 1607, the famous, although inglorious, Battle of Guzów took place here, a fratricidal battle between the armies of King Sigismund III Vasa and troops of noblemen and magnates. Commanded by Hetman of the Crown Stanisław Żółkiewski and Great Hetman of Lithuania Jan Karol Chodkiewicz, the royal army smashed the rebel troops.

ponds are visible on the right. After some time, we reach Ciepta again, where we turn right and head towards Łaziska. There, we turn left onto Wjazdowa Street, making our way to Orońsko. At the crossroads of Brandt and Witosa Streets, we turn left, continuing along the asphalt road through a landscape of increasingly sparse houses. Meadows and fields gradually replace the buildings, and eventually, we arrive back in Guzów.

Museum of Folk Musical Instruments in Szydłowiec

Described as “a unique gem on the southern outskirts of Mazovia,” this estate is one of the most impressive Gothic-Renaissance magnate residences in Poland. Picturesquely located on an artificial island surrounded by a moat, it is now home to the Museum of Folk Musical Instruments. The former aristocratic chambers are now filled with an exhibition showcasing folk artifacts that highlight humanity’s deep connection with music. Many of the displays are interactive, allowing visitors not only to play various instruments but also to compose music or listen to recordings.

Mazovian Landscape Park

The park is mainly covered by coniferous forests, with numerous marshes and moors. One popular spot is the "Łabędzi Szlak" nature route, located near the "Baza Torfy" educational center. This scenic walking trail, which takes about 40 minutes to complete, is a favorite among visitors. Another notable location is the "Bagno Całowanie" bog, which stretches over 15 kilometers. This area is crucial for wildlife conservation, providing a safe haven for endangered bird species and rare plant life. Additionally, the bog is home to an important archaeological site, where traces of settlement dating back 13,000 years have been discovered, offering a glimpse into the region's ancient history.

Palace in Mała Wieś

This magnificent classicist estate, designed by Hilary Szpilowski, has been owned by several distinguished families over the years, including the Walicki, Zamoyski, Lubomirski, and Morawski families. Today, after a restoration, the estate offers a luxurious hotel and exceptional cuisine, all set within a beautiful park. Nearby, you'll find other charming manor houses in Rębowola, Rosochów, Odrzyczek, and Wilczogóra, most of which can be explored along a local cycling route. Additionally, the nearby Modrzewina Nature Reserve is home to the largest concentration of Polish larch trees in the country, including some truly monumental specimens.

Ruins of the Castle of the Mazovian Dukes
Sochaczew

The route then heads southeast through areas still inhabited by the Kurpie Białe. The distinctive Kurpie architectural tradition is especially noticeable in the village of Nagoszewo. At 344th km, we reach Brok, known for its Gothic-Renaissance church of St. Andrew the Apostle, a true architectural gem.

The trip continues through the heart of the Nadbużański Landscape Park, including the Miednik forest complex and the Kałużynskie Lakes nature route. The route passes through Starawieś, Borzychy, and finally Liw, where we find the famous tower of the Castle of the Mazovian Dukes.

We now follow the courses of the Liwiec and Kostrzyn rivers. Near Stara Sucha, there is a private open-air museum – the Museum of Wooden Architecture of the Siedlce Region. The route then heads south through numerous small villages. After passing the Florianów Reserve, we reach Jeruzal, the village that inspired the TV series The Ranch. We continue our journey through villages with sparse buildings, intersected by smaller rivers, such as the Świder. Beyond Zabieżki, we enter the Mazowiecki Landscape Park, home to numerous educational trails (e.g. the Kissing Swamp). The final stretch takes us through historic Góra Kalwaria and the majestic Czersk Castle. On our return to Warka, it's worth cycling along the banks of the Pilica River, offering fantastic views along the way!

Liw Castle Armoury Museum

The castle in Liw, or more accurately the ruins of a 15th-century border guard tower, was built on the left bank of the Liwiec River. Its purpose was to oversee the river crossing and protect the eastern border of the Duchy of Mazovia. The structure was constructed on an artificially raised hill supported by wooden piles. The castle's glory ended with the Swedish Deluge, but after World War II, restoration efforts began. In the 1960s, a museum dedicated to old weapons and Liw's military history was established in the manor house and gate tower. Today, the castle houses a collection of over 2,000 exhibits spanning from the 15th to the 20th century.

Jacek Malczewski Museum in Radom

The well-known Radom collector, Father Wisniewski, decided in December 1913 to donate part of his collections to the Radom Department of the PTTK. It was this donation that contributed to the creation of this unique museum. The famous Polish painter Jacek Malczewski, who became the patron of this place, was born in Radom. Over the years, the museum has grown rich in collections and developed under the care of outstanding specialists. Today, it consists of 5 departments: Old Art, Archaeology, Nature, History and Non-professional Art.

Pionki Reservoir

Between 2019 and 2021, the artificial reservoir on the Zagożdżonka River in Pionki underwent revitalization. The result is the creation of the 'Staw Górny' swimming area, which is now a popular spot for both locals and tourists. The reservoir spans 120-250 meters in width and stretches 800 meters in length. A designated swimming area, supervised by a lifeguard, ensures safety for swimmers. The beach is equipped with moorings for pedal boats and canoes, and water sports enthusiasts can enjoy water ball games. Additionally, there is a water ski lift, 'Wake Park', for those looking to try "something more adventurous". The surrounding green areas have been developed with recreational facilities, including pitches for bubble football, volleyball, and beach soccer, as well as an outdoor gym. A children's playground is also available. For relaxation, there are benches, deckchairs, and modern infrastructure with changing rooms, ensuring a comfortable experience for all visitors.

Castle of the Mazovian Dukes in Czersk

Kozienice Forest. From there, it follows the historical Gościniec Królewski route, once used by King Władysław Jagiełło. The route continues through Warka and, near Góra Kalwaria, follows the Vistula River. After crossing the river in Warsaw via the Siekierkowski Bridge, we head along the Żerański Canal to Nieporęt on the Zegrzyński Reservoir. The route then follows the Narew River to Nowy Dwór Mazowiecki, where the Narew meets the Vistula. From there, it continues along the Vistula, passing Czerwińsk on the Vistula, Wyszogród, and finally reaching Płock.

The return trip takes us south from Płock, initially following the Vistula before veering away near Pieczęska Łowskie. Heading south again, we cross into the Łódź Voivodeship before returning to Mazovia near the Bolimowski Landscape Park. The final stretch leads us through a series of towns and villages, mostly passing through built-up areas, until we return to Radom, completing the loop.

Romanesque church and monastery, Czerwińsk nad Wisłą

The church was founded alongside a monastery of canons in the first half of the 12th century. In 1410, King Władysław Jagiełło prayed here for the success of his campaign against the Teutonic Knights, and after the Battle of Grunwald, he is said to have donated his battle helmet to the monastery in gratitude. Constructed from stone, the church has undergone several expansions, first in the Gothic style during the early 16th century, and later in the 17th century when it took on Baroque features. Notable interior highlights include 13th-century frescoes, a richly decorated Romanesque portal dating back to 1140-1160, and a Baroque altar featuring the miraculous image of the Virgin Mary of Czerwińsk. Adjacent to the church are the monastery buildings, which house a missionary museum and, since 2015, a biographical museum dedicated to Primate Cardinal August Hlond.

Wyszków

The city rises picturesquely above the slopes of the Bug River. It is an ideal stop on the Mazovia tour route. Among the most recognisable landmarks of the town is St. Idzi's Church, with its beautifully designed garden and elements of small architecture. Wyszków can also be proud of its revitalised, historic Ferdinand Waza Park. 'Green lungs' of the city have a very varied terrain. Among the park's attractions are the small, charming bronze squirrel sculptures, the baroque Vasa Obelisk or the brine graduation tower. Many visitors are keen to have their photo taken on the bench of Jerzy Różycki, a distinguished graduate of the Wyszków secondary school, co-author of the success of the decryption of the German Enigma machine.

Podlasie Bug Gorge Landscape Park

The Park stretches along the Bug Valley, being administratively part of the Mazowieckie and Lubelskie Voivodeships. The symbol and the most distinctive element of the landscape of the area is the gorge river, passing moraine hills. The naturally meandering Bug River flows through a wide and narrow valley. Where it is wide, it spills out into wetlands and even marshes. There are many oxbow lakes with a typical arched shape. The Bug River Walking Trail (red) and several educational and nature trails lead through the park.

is in Janów Podlaski, from where we begin our return journey. We pass through small villages such as Solinki, Bukowice, Huszlew, and Ługi. At 380th km, we reach Mościbrody Manor, one of the most charming places in Mazovia.

We then enter the Florianów Reserve, with its stunning post-glacial terrain, and continue to Jeruzal, made famous by the TV series Rancho. After another 60 km, we arrive in Góra Kalwaria, a picturesque town by the Vistula River, known for its sacred monuments, including a beautiful post-Bernardine Baroque monastery complex. The final section of the route leads us north to Warsaw, once again following the Vistula River. For those who prefer the smaller loop, there are several notable sights to explore. At the 95th km of the trail, we pass the Śliże Reserve, which protects rare flora and fauna, including the round-leaved sundew and yellow water lily. After another 35 km, we reach Węgrów, where the Twardowski Mirror is displayed in the Baroque basilica. Finally, the Open-Air Museum in Nowa Sucha (around 147th km, slightly off-route) offers a charming detour, with its richly decorated manor house of the Cieszkowski family located along the Kostrzyń River.

Palace in Ślężany

A beautiful tree-lined avenue leads to the historic chateau, designed in an eclectic style. This precisely restored building, nearly 150 years old, was constructed by Jan von Egert, who masterfully blended Neoclassical and Neo-Baroque elements. Today, the palace serves as a conference center and hosts a restaurant open on weekends. Its location is one of its greatest assets: set in a 'Natura 2000' area, atop a high escarpment overlooking the Bug River, it offers stunning panoramic views. Visitors can also enjoy the surrounding park, dominated by ancient trees, with a majestic oak over 100 years old standing as a particularly impressive feature and now serving as the iconic symbol of the estate.

Cycling technique:

This is a challenging cycling route that requires a high level of physical fitness. Some sections may require to carry your bike. The route can be particularly difficult in the spring or after heavy rainfall.

GPX

Practical:

- Convenient connections from PKP Płock to the rest of the country and the region (Mazovian Railways).
- Optional shorter trip: PKP Łąck – PKP Płock.
- On the route there are many forest resting places and swimming areas: Górskie, Lucieńskie and Łąckie lakes.

Surface (approximately):

- unpaved: 36 km
- paved: 11 km
- asphalt: 19 km

Route:

This picturesque route takes you through the Gostynin Lake District and the Gostynin-Włocławek Landscape Park. We begin our trip at Odwach (formerly a Russian guardhouse, now the PTTK headquarters) in Płock. After crossing the Legionów Bridge to the opposite side of the Vistula River, we follow the red route. In the Radziwie district, we turn right, cross a railway crossing, and reach forest and dirt roads. Passing the village of Dzierżazna, we continue along the paved fire road. After crossing the Soczewka – Sendeń asphalt road (carefully), we join a short stretch of the yellow trail, which leads to the point where the Skrwa Lewa River flows into Lake Soczewka. From here, you can either take a 6 km loop around the lake and visit the village of Soczewka or continue along the yellow and blue trails.

We follow the meandering Skrwa River along a forest singletrack. Along the way, we pass beaver feeding grounds and burrows, and reach a bridge crossing known as Krzywy Kołek. At this point, you can shorten the trip by following the blue trail to Jezioro Białe (White Lake). This section is considered one of the most scenic in the park, but it is also very challenging due to fallen trees. After crossing the river, we continue on the yellow trail. At the water treatment station, we turn left and head southwest. We carefully cross the Nowy Dunin – Lucień road and make our way toward Lucień Lake. Reaching Gajówka Lipianki, we turn left onto the black route, which leads to the lake, where there is a bathing area and large car park.

Skrwa Lewa

The Skrwa is a left tributary of the Vistula. It has preserved its exceptionally wild and natural character. Above the meandering Skrwa valley stretches the Gostynin esker, the height of which reaches even over 30 m. The river duplicates the boundary between the historical lands of Kujawy and Mazovia. The Skrwa also crosses the Gostynin-Włocławek Landscape Park and many nature reserves.

State Stallion Farm in Łącko

The State Stallion Farm in Łącko was established in 1923 by an act of the President of the Republic of Poland. Its primary mission, which remains unchanged, is to support Polish agriculture by improving the quality of horses bred in the country. The farm focuses on purchasing stallions of various breeds with the highest breeding value. In addition to breeding activities, the farm also organizes equestrian events and competitions. A riding club was established here, and riders representing the club have achieved success in numerous competitions.

Krzywy Kołek

Krzywy Kołek was once a forest settlement and, in the 1980s, served as a student base for the Academic Equestrian Club from Łódź, located just 100 meters from the banks of the Skrwa Lewa River — a challenging yet unique kayaking route. In more recent years, Krzywy Kołek has become a popular stop for tourists exploring the surrounding area. It lies along two key routes: the yellow 'Północny' trail, also known as the 'Main Route of the Kotlina Płocka,' and the blue 'Nadwiślański' trail, both attracting nature lovers and outdoor enthusiasts.

At the parking area, facing the water, we turn left and head toward Lake Białe. There is an old asphalt road through the forest here. We cross the Nowy Dunin – Lucień route again and continue around Lake Białe (you can take a detour around the lake from either side). After passing the charming reservoir, we return to the red trail, which takes us through the village of Sendeń. A short distance later, the red and yellow trails merge and continue along a singletrack path through the Jastrzębek Nature Reserve, where you can either follow the red trail back to Płock or take the yellow one to the railway station in Łącko (on the Płock-Kutno railway line).

If you continue the trip, you'll follow an old path to the village of Łąck, famous for its stallion stud farm. At the stud farm, you'll turn onto the green trail. Following the singletrack along Lakes Łąckie Duże and Łąckie Małe, we cycle through the forest, passing the spot where the Górskie and Ciechomickie lakes merge. We ride through Grabina and slowly make our way back toward Płock.

Górskie and Ciechomickie Lakes

Górskie Lake was once a single body of water with Ciechomice Lake. Today, they are connected by a seasonal stream. Górskie Lake is easily accessible from the shore, and its close proximity to Płock makes it a popular weekend destination for summer visitors.

Jastrzębek Nature Reserve

The nature reserve protects forest and marsh ecosystems, as well as Lake Sędeńskie. The area's varied geomorphology is shaped by post-glacial formations, including oases, kames, and extrusion basins. The marshy, boggy regions are home to rare and protected species, such as Listeria ovata and sundews.

The monastery includes a memorial chamber and welcomes visitors at any time.

Village of Olszanka

A picturesque settlement with villa-style buildings, nestled in a pine forest, was founded at the beginning of the 20th century. It became famous for its microclimate, which was particularly beneficial for people suffering from lung diseases. Combined with the stunning landscapes, this led to an influx of Warsaw's artistic and scientific elite. Many mansions and villas were built, which still enchant today with their timeless charm. To famous people related to Olszanka is the Rapacki family, including Józef Rapacki, known as the "painter of birches and lilac heather", who was buried at cemetery in Puszcza Mariańska.

Nasielsk Tower

It is the town's landmark and a historic building in the form of a bastion. The single-storey building was erected in 1920 as a transformer station. Built of brick, plastered, in the form of a cube with buttresses. The circular-shaped windows create the impression of an attic of a tenement house. The tower has no basement and the façade is crowned with shaped cornices. In the 1980s it housed a shop. Nowadays, after extensive renovation, the tower adorns the city space.

Application "Route of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Warsaw".

It is worth downloading the application before setting off, which shows in detail not only the course of the red (and black) trail, but also shows many valuable, interesting and important places. It describes the towns and cities and the details of the 'Miracle on the Vistula', as well as interesting natural sites, cultural and recreational facilities, Natura 2000 areas, parks, monuments and squares, among others. The application was developed in cooperation with the Mazovian branch of the PTTK and is designed to give users the opportunity to earn the special badge.

Wkra Valley

The western part of the Nasielsk municipality is located within the Wkra River Valley (e.g. Cieksyn, Borkowo, Lelewo, Zaborze). This is a great area for weekend tourism, summer recreation and active leisure, including canoeing. The Wkra itself is a picturesque and charming river, meandering among fields, meadows and forests, sometimes high washing its banks. There are water equipment rentals in Borkowo, among others. There are also agro-tourism and glamping facilities and horse stables waiting for tourists.

Leaving the city on Żwirki i Wigury Street, the route continues through Cmentarna Street. In the parish cemetery, visitors can see the grave of soldiers who died in the 1920 battles. A little further down, on Lipowa Street, an older war cemetery dating back to the Napoleonic Wars can also be found.

Cyclists then head west to Konary, a crucial position for the Polish Northern Front in 1920. The route continues with a long, quiet stretch of tarmac road through Ruszkówek, Malczyn, and Wiktorowo. In Ciek syn, the cemetery holds a mass grave of 85 soldiers killed in the 1920 battles, marked by a commemorative plaque.

From Ciek syn, cyclists follow the asphalt road to Lelewo, turning left in Zaborze, heading east. The route passes Miękoszyn, Studzianki, and Krogule—villages vital to the course of the Battle of Warsaw. In Nuna, cyclists turn north to return to the starting point after approximately 2 km.

Chrcynno Airfield

The airfield, located about 5 km southeast of Nasielsk, is owned by the Aeroclub of Warsaw. Although the current airfield was established in 2012, its history dates back to the inter-war period. Prior to World War II, the estate's owner, in collaboration with the Polish Air Defence League (LOPP), decided to establish an airfield for airplanes. They chose a strip of meadowland with favorable aerial and aviator characteristics for this purpose. Construction began in 1935, and by March 1939, in anticipation of war, an alternate airfield in Chrcynno was designated for fighter planes.

Konstancin – Jeziorna Spa Park
Konstancin-Jeziorna, the only spa in Mazovia, dates back to the 19th century. At its heart is Tężnia Solankowa, a natural salt chamber that releases brine from over 1.5 km deep into the air. The spa is surrounded by scenic walking paths through trees, bushes, and plants, with bridges and terraces offering views over the Jeziorka River. There are also playgrounds and an open-air gym for active leisure. Numerous cafés, restaurants, and cultural events in the amphitheatre enhance the experience. The blend of natural beauty, healing salt air, and cultural attractions makes Konstancin-Jeziorna a unique destination.

Gassy
The area near Konstancin-Gassy is famous for its folk and ritual events that celebrate local traditions and cultural heritage. One of the highlights is the Flis Festival, honoring the tradition of crossing the Vistula River. This practice is symbolically continued by a ferry linking the Urzecze communities. The festival features river rafting, traditional Vistula professions, and local music, dances, chants, and costumes like the iconic ‘Wilanów’ attire. Another key event is Zielone Świątki (Pentecost), which includes a grand river procession through several communes along the Vistula, emphasizing community and cultural continuity. These events offer visitors a unique insight into the region’s folk traditions and history.

Route 12

- Practical:
- Start of the route near several convenient car parks on Tumską Street.
 - PKP Płock (station at Chopina Street) well connected with the region due to the Mazovian Railways. Connection Płock – Sierpc several times a day.
 - Excellent resting place on the pier in Płock and on the beach in Szczutowo.

Surface (approximately):

- unpaved: 46 km
- cobblestone: 2 km
- paved: 29 km
- asphalt: 17 km

scale 1: 210 000

Route:

We start our trip at the PTTK City Branch in Płock (4 Tumaska Street), a classicist building once serving as a Tsar's guardhouse. From here, we head to the Winiary district, named for the vineyards of the Piast rulers. Following the cycling trail, we reach the city limits, where we switch to the blue cycling trail, often overlapping with the red walking route. After 14 km, passing through the Brwilno Nature Reserve, we arrive at the tourist village of Cierszewo, known for its recreation and training center. Here, we cross the Skrwa River.

Continuing north, we cross a road and enter Brudzeński Landscape Park near the village of Siecień. In Brudzeń Duży, we turn off the road by the church and follow a single-track path, crossing the Skrwa River again via a picturesque bridge. We'll frequently see the meandering river as we continue. The terrain changes along the way, and at the 41st km, we need to be very careful entering the Mochowo-Ligowo road – there is heavy traffic. A historic mill with a water dam in Żurawin is worth a stop, especially for enthusiasts of industrial heritage.

We move on to Choczeń, where the Skrwa River can be seen (overflowing its banks during the rainy season), and another 19th-century mill. The trail then takes us through forest areas to Sierpc. At 55th km, you can shorten the trip by turning right to the Sierpc railway station. If you choose to continue, follow

New bridge in Cierszewo

The popular summer resort had been struggling with the problem of a non-working bridge for several years. Since recently, the inhabitants and tourists of Brudzeń Duży can enjoy a new bridge, which was built in just two months thanks to the cooperation of the State Forests and the soldiers.

The Mazovian Village Museum

It is recommended to start a visit to the museum with a classicist town hall from 1841, where temporary exhibitions are held. Since 1977, the open-air museum has collected more than 80 small and large architectural objects in the spatial arrangement of the village (peasant homesteads from the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries, a manor house, a wooden church from the 18th century, a windmill-kiln, an inn and a manor complex), exhibitions in the folk sculpture gallery and the carriage house. The village buildings are furnished with old equipment. The cottages surrounded by gardens and the animals living here make the open-air museum come alive.

Skrwa Prawa in the Sikórz Reserve and Brudzeński Landscape Park

The strongly meandering Skrwa flows in a deep gorge, and its valley is varied with hills separated by trough depressions. The riverbed is bounded by massive, steep escarpments up to 50 metres high, the slopes of which are cut by numerous dry gullies and ravines through which streams flow periodically. There are also rockfalls, landslides and overhangs, exposing soil profiles and tree roots. Traces of the last glaciation are the stones and erratic boulders covering the slopes and bottoms of the ravines and the four river terraces. The river banks are overgrown with natural coastal scrub and riparian forests.

the blue trail to Szczutowo, a popular summer resort with lakes where you can rent cottages, enjoy a guarded beach and water equipment.

On the 60th km, be cautious near the junction with national road No. 10. Here, we leave the blue trail and switch to the green walking route, which forms a 25 km loop around Sierpc through Mazovian villages and fields. The route ends near the Sierpc Open Air Museum and railway station. You can cap off your trip by exploring Sierpc itself, including the 14th-15th century Gothic church, the town's butcheries, the wooden house 'Kasztelanka,' or the mentioned Museum.

Sikórz Nature Reserve

This nature reserve protects the landscape values of the Skrwa River and biologically precious areas of coastal riparian and natural oak-hornbeam communities. These values, numerous monumental trees and stands of protected plants can be admired thanks to the nature and forest footpaths in Sikórz and Kobierniki.

The mill in Żurawin

The mill and its settlement, Jakubowo, were established on the Skrwa River in 1921 and remain well-preserved. The site's notable hydrotechnical features, including weirs and sluices, attract attention. It is a popular stop for both cyclists and canoeists, offering a scenic and historic rest point along their trip.

Route:

The nearby meadows, sandbanks, banks, and islands are unique breeding and feeding grounds for Mazovian ornithofauna. The whole trip is also a valuable opportunity to learn about places connected with the life and heritage of the Olenders in Mazovia. In the 17th century, the Dutch, brought by local landowners, settled in this area. The Olenders economy was connected with farming and adapting fields on flooded terrains to the requirements of cultivation. The Olenders were engaged in breeding, fruit farming, cheese making, and wicker cultivation. Nowadays, what remains is a typical Olenders landscape with roads planted with willows and fragments of wooden buildings situated on characteristic hills. The trail starts at the Solidarności Bridge, from which you head north and then east along Grabówka Street. After about 3 km, the route starts to follow the course of the River Stupianka (Zarzeczna Street). Further on, along Poczтова and Flisacka Streets, we reach the banks of the Vistula River, which we will follow eastwards all the way to Wyszogród. After 12 km, we pass the vicinity of the Troszynskie Ławice Reserve. Past Wykowo, we turn away from the Vistula, entering the vast forest complexes of the Biało-brzegi area. There is a longer stretch of landscape of cultivated fields and mid-field groups of trees and shrubs ahead of us. Passing, among other things, the oxbow lake of the Vistula, we are entering Kępa Polska. The following villages are Zakrzewo Kościelne, Holendry, and Podgórze, after passing which we approach the Vistula again. After about 37 km we enter the forest again, and after 5 km we reach Wyszogród. The returning route

The Mazovian Museum in Płock with its departments

The museum has several departments, and visiting all of them in detail would require several days. If time is limited, unfortunately, you will have to make a choice. The museum occupies several floors of a renovated Art Nouveau tenement house at 8 Tumska Street, which houses a unique collection of Art Nouveau art, divided thematically into clothing, furniture, glassware, and jewelry.

At 6 Kolegialna Street, the museum presents interiors in an Art Déco style, with a stunning red automobile placed centrally, the Odeon cinema, and an exceptionally rich arrangement of photographs that captivate visitors. At 7 Kwiatka Street, in the former synagogue building, the Museum of Mazovian Jews offers a deep dive into the history of Jews in Mazovia. The exhibition covers various aspects of Judeo-Christian culture, including food, music, customs, and architecture, as well as the history of the Holocaust.

Adjacent to the Art Nouveau Tenement House is a modern arranged exhibition titled "10th Century of Płock: Płock in the cultural space of Mazovia, Poland, and Europe." The three floors of the glazed building showcase, with the help of multimedia, 1,000 years of the city's rich history. The historic Granary houses the Ethnographic Department, where visitors can explore the culture of the Mazovian region in a colorful and folkloric way. This department also features an impressive collection of Far Eastern art, with a Buddhist section that contains over 130 pieces of oriental art.

from Wyszogród runs much closer to the banks of the Vistula River. At the Kępa Rakowska Reserve, in the distance, you can see meadows and islands with lush riparian vegetation. To the south, on the left side of our trail, there are farmlands, meadows, and a little further some buildings. The next scenic section of the trip passes through the Kępa Antonińska Nature Reserve, a unique sanctuary for gulls, terns, and little ringed plovers. After about 20 km, you pass the buildings of Rybaki, a linear village founded by Dutch settlers. Further on, we pass the farms of the villages of Nowosiadło, Michowice, and Wiączemin Polski. In Wiączemin it is worth getting off the bike and visiting the beautifully preserved cottages in the Open Air Museum of Vistula Settlement. Next, we move towards Kozików and Troszyn Polski, after which we approach the Vistula River again. Our route avoids the busy roads of larger towns such as Dobrzyków. At Jordanów, the views on the Vistula are exceptionally spectacular. This is an excellent section of the route for successful nature photography. The last part of the trip is the entrance to the Jerzy Popiełuszko Route, which turns into the Solidarności Bridge.

Vistula River Museum in Wyszogród

The museum is located in a small, stylish building not far from the market square, offering a beautiful promenade along the Vistula River with a stunning panoramic view of the river. Wyszogród once stood at the crossroads of important trade routes, and throughout history, it has been traversed by merchants traveling from north to south and from west to east. Numerous artefacts related to its trading past have been discovered in the Wyszogród area, including foreign coins and merchandise seals, which are now displayed in the museum's exhibition cases. Additionally, part of the museum's exhibition includes a glass pavilion on the Vistula escarpment, which houses the remains of a Soviet Pe-2 aircraft from World War II.

Practical:

- Convenient railway stations: PKP Otwock Świder and PKP Otwock.
- Convenient resting spots: Town Beach and the Holiday Inn Hotel beach (also a popular golf course here).
- Otwock has an Otwock City Bicycle (otwockrower.pl).

Route:

The route starts at the Otwock railway station building, which is an example of modernist architecture of the early 20th century. We cross the railway tracks going through a recently built tunnel, behind which we turn right. This is the heart of the town, there are no marked cycle lanes and the traffic is heavy, so you need to be particularly careful. We ride along Orla Street, which turns into Świderska Street and passes the Otwock Jews' Memorial Square on our left. Turn right after the square into Górna Street, and then continue straight until the junction with Rzemieślnicza Street, and by the Lidl shop turn left and then right into Kołtątaja Street – one of the main roads out of Otwock. Now we are accompanied on both sides of the road by the buildings in few places intersected by forest. We turn right from Kołtątaja street into Majowa street, which will lead us back to Górna street, and further along Jasna street to Mickiewicz street and the Świder railway station. We continue straight along the railway tracks, passing the railway bridge. The landscape changes to one full of greenery, trees and singing birds. We are in the Świder Nature Reserve. This is where the most challenging part of the route begins. We ride along quite narrow and winding paths next to steep riverside escarpments. But the views are worth the effort, as the river is exceptionally

Town beach in Otwock

This spot offers a perfect place for sunbathing, strolling, and even winter bathing. The Świder River, surrounded by coniferous trees, creates a unique microclimate that the entire family can enjoy. There is a volleyball and beach volleyball court by the beach, and younger children can have fun on the 'pirate' playground, making it an ideal destination for both relaxation and family activities.

Otwock

A town near Warsaw, situated between the Vistula and Świder rivers, full of greenery and history. Once a popular health resort on the Otwock line for Warsaw's elite, it is now reviving. Renovated monuments, a revitalised park, and the brine graduation tower are key attractions. The restored A. Gurewicz Health Resort highlights both the spa's legacy and Świdermajer architecture. Cycling routes cater to the active, and the Municipal Beach on the Świder offers relaxation. Everything is easily accessible, with convenient transport, including the railway.

Świdermajer

Also known as the Vistula style, Świdermajer reflects the spirit of wooden holiday architecture that emerged at the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries along the Vistula Iron Road, or the Otwock Line. This style can be seen in summer resorts such as Anin, Międzyzlesie, Radość, Falenica, Józefów, Świder, and later Otwock. Michał Elwiro Andriolli is considered the creator of the style. Świdermajer combines traditional Mazovian architecture with lightweight construction and intricately decorated pavilions. Some also point out its influences from Alpine architecture, giving it a unique and picturesque charm.

picturesque here. On the way, we pass the bridge of the narrow-gauge railway and the historic Brzegi – a former settlement, where Michał Elwiro Andriolli settled, considered to be one of the fathers of Otwock and the creator of the ‘Świdermajer’ style. All the time, we are accompanied by the extraordinary flora of the river. It is worth stopping for a short rest at Turystyczna Street, by the Municipal Beach, where there is a place of recreation and rest (Park nad Świdrem) right on the Świder River. We continue along the river, passing the former “Urzecze region” border. We leave the river at Józefów, not far from its mouth to the Vistula. We take Warsztatowa Street to the left, and at the first roundabout we turn left. This is the area of the former Urzecze region (Świdry Wielkie na Urzeczu). The scenery changes radically, we enter the town again and are accompanied by its buildings. We continue straight along Kraszewskiego Street until the junction with Brzozowa Street (a short forest section awaits us here – the Narrow-Gauge Railway Route), then we enter Turystyczna Street and ride all the way to Nadbrzeskie Borderlands and Downtown. Then the route leads us through heavily urbanised areas, partly on cycling routes, partly on roads. The last point on our trail is the Narrow Gauge Railway Station in Wawerska Street, behind which we turn left into Staszica Street, then right into Kupiecka Street and further into Orla Street, which will lead us back to Świdowska Street and the Otwock Jews’ Memorial Square.

Falenica Station cinema cafe

Stacja Falenica Cinema Café is located in the former Falenica Station building on the Vistula Railway line. Established in 2010, it offers a unique and extraordinary experience. It’s not just a cinema, but a place where you can enjoy a film while having a dessert, a drink, or even something alcoholic brought to your table during the screening. The station building itself was constructed in the 1930s, when the electrification of the Otwock line gave a modernist touch to all the railway stops along the route. Nearby, you can also find the abandoned wooden building of an older station dating back to 1900.

Route:

The route begins near the bike rental station at Julinek Park. We start our trip by exiting the former circus grounds through a small wooden gate, where a clear path runs alongside the park's fence. Heading west, we soon pick up the markers of the green cycling trail. Following this trail, we turn north, although the path becomes more challenging in some places due to sandy terrain.

At Posada Łubiec, we come across a small chapel at a crossroads. Here, the green trail merges with the red trail, also known as the Main Kampinos Forest Trail. The landscape starts to become more diverse as we continue. Soon, we reach the 'Karpaty' Area of Strict Protection, a large dune complex featuring a ridge that borders marshlands. The terrain here is rugged, with exposed tree roots and steep slopes, requiring special attention.

At a fork in the path, we find a large information board about the 'Zamczysko' Area of Strict Protection. It's worth taking a detour south (turn left near the shelter) to rest and explore the remains of an early medieval castle. After returning to the main crossroads, we can either continue west or opt for a more challenging alternate route. This alternate path curves westward, passing Występna Góra, the Pine of the 1863 Insurgents, and a commemorative stone for victims of that era. If you stick to the main route, be cautious of a sharp and sudden downhill section. Following the green trail, we pass the 'Nart' Area of Strict Protection and soon reach an asphalt road by the Leoncin

Fryderyk Chopin's Birthplace

Although Fryderyk Chopin spent only a few months in Żelazowa Wola, visiting the museum offers a captivating look into the era of the famous composer. The manor, surrounded by a picturesque park, evokes the charm of a Mazovian noble village. The exhibition highlights the strong bond between the Chopin and Skarbek families, focusing on Chopin's father, who was a French teacher and tutor. During the Chopin Year celebrations, two modern pavilions were added, with glass façades that blend beautifully with the park's natural surroundings, enhancing the experience of this historic site.

Municipality welcome sign. Cycling southward, we encounter an increasing number of landmarks, blending natural beauty with historical significance. Entering the boundary of the 'Granica' Area of Strict Protection, we turn west and arrive at Granica itself, which offers several attractions, such as the Kampinos Forest Museum, the Open-Air Museum of Forest Architecture, the Kampinos Forestry site, and the Foresters' Chapel. One highlight here is the Kampinoska Cottage, a favorite stop along the way. At the next major junction, we turn left, though an alternative route branches to the right, curving west past the Oak of Insurgents and rejoining the main path near Pindal. Continuing south, we pass well-maintained tourist facilities, making this stretch of the journey quite enjoyable. After crossing a small bridge, we turn westward, passing the 'Przyćmień' Area of Strict Protection to reach Łazy and then Pindal. From Kirsztajnow, we head south straight to Żelazowa Wola. Bikes can be securely parked at the museum entrance.

The return trip to Julinek Park can be varied by choosing alternate routes, though it's important to note that these may become difficult to navigate after heavy rainfall.

Granica

Granica is a notable landmark in the Kampinos Forest, distinguished not only by its historic buildings but also as a hub where hiking, cycling, and educational trails converge. This area hosts several attractions, including the Kampinos National Park Didactic and Museum Centre, the Open-Air Museum of Forest Architecture, and a World War II cemetery.

The buildings, styled in traditional forest architecture, have been meticulously renovated, preserving their historical charm. Nearby, visitors will find a spacious recreational clearing, a car park, modern sanitary facilities, and a series of educational boards, making Granica a perfect stop for relaxation and learning.

Route 16

Practical:

- The starting point near the Ciechanów Przemysłowy railway station (IC, KM).
- The car park next to the Torus Science Park.
- Ciechanów Urban Bicycle has already 10 stations and 96 bicycles.

Surface (approximately):

- unpaved: 3 km
- cobblestone: 2 km
- paved: 9 km
- asphalt: 65 km

Route:

Sightseeing tours in and around Ciechanów are organized into two loops, which can be completed in a single day or split across two. Both routes primarily follow paved roads, cycle paths, and quiet, low-traffic asphalt roads. Each loop begins and ends at the Ciechanów Przemysłowy railway station. Cycling one loop takes approximately 3 hours, with a total elevation gain of 130 meters.

Starting under the viaduct, we follow the cycling trail toward the city's outskirts. Around the 4th km, we pass the Krubin swimming baths before leaving the city behind and entering tranquil countryside. At the 9th km, in the village of Bieńki, the route connects to a cycling trail that leads straight to the Museum of Positivism in Gołotczyzna. This first stop offers a scenic and culturally rich experience. Note: bicycles must be parked in designated racks.

Next, the route takes us to St. Nicholas Church in Ciemnowko, located by the Sona River at approximately the 18th km. This wooden, three-nave church is a striking example of log construction, blending folk and baroque architectural elements. From here, we continue along quiet country roads, eventually reaching Opinogóra after 32 km. This village is home to the impressive Museum of Romanticism, set within a beautiful park complete with ponds. Cyclists will appreciate the convenience of being able to enter the park and palace complex with their bikes.

The museum is located on the estate of Aleksander Świętochowski, a prominent Polish writer and social activist. The complex includes several parts, each offering a unique historical experience. These include the Manor House of Aleksandra Bąkowska, the suffragette and translator; nearby farm buildings with historical agricultural machinery; and Krzewnia, Świętochowski's residence, now showcasing memorabilia related to his life. The most recent addition is a small manor house with a granary, newly opened to the public, completing this historical site.

TORUS – Tower and Science Park in Ciechanów

This extraordinary structure earned global recognition in 2013, ranking 5th on The World Geography portal's list of the most unusual towers. Despite its ambitious design, the Ciechanów water tower, constructed in the 1970s, failed to meet its functional goals. However, its striking futuristic form has captivated onlookers ever since. The tower's openwork design features 64 pipes inclined at a 60° angle, forming a mesmerizing single-plane rotating hyperboloid. Following extensive renovations and the addition of a modern two-story annex, the site has been transformed into the inspiring and educational Science Park Torus.

Exiting the park to the north, we rejoin the cycling route leading to Ciechanów Castle—another highlight of the tour. This historic and highly photogenic site is worth taking extra time to explore. Be sure to check the events calendar in advance, as the castle hosts workshops, tournaments, and fairs during the summer.

The return journey takes us along a scenic boulevard and through industrial areas back to our starting point.

The western loop, 40 km long is slightly shorter and offers more varied landscapes. It traverses woodlands and countryside, with approximately 37 km on well-maintained tarmac roads. To begin, carry your bike up the steps to cross the viaduct. The route leads to Ciechanów's iconic historic water tower.

At 4th km there is a short, 500-meter section along the busy Route 60, requiring extra caution. The route then winds through picturesque villages and fields, reaching Chotum at the 30th km. Here, you'll find the charming wooden Church of Our Lady of Częstochowa.

The western loop concludes in Ciechanów, where the massive, historic Px48 steam locomotive marks the final stop of this captivating trip.

Museum of Romanticism in Opinogóra

Nestled in the heart of a historic park, atop a small hill accessed via alleys lined with majestic trees and shrubs, stands a charming neo-Gothic palace. Once serving as a garden pavilion and summer retreat, it was a venue for hosting guests and lively gatherings.

Today, the palace is part of the Museum of Romanticism, housing a collection of artifacts related to the Krasiński family. Special emphasis is placed on Zygmunt Krasiński, one of Poland's most celebrated Romantic poets, making it a touching tribute to his legacy.

The route is easily accessible from Wyszaków, Kamieńczyk (which lies along the route), or from one of the many railway stations along the line that cuts through the loop like a diameter. A suggested starting point is the Sadowe Węgrowskie railway station, from where it's a quick ride to the loop. Before continuing, you can take a detour to the Zielenieckie Dunes or the popular Kules Moor nature route.

Following the road through the forest to Sadowne, we turn left onto Partyzantów Street once we reach the first buildings on Łochowska Street. The route continues through Ocięte, Szynkorzyzna, and Zakurze. After passing the village of Brzuza, we enter a longer forest section, followed by a loop around the summer resort of Wywłoka, situated along a bend of the Bug River. You may take a brake at the beach near the 'ice swimming' sign before continuing along Brzozowa Street and Jałowcowa Street, and rejoining the main route.

We head west through the forest, then south to Łazy, where we turn right towards Stare Łazy. From there, we head north, passing

Wywłoka

Bug
Poland's fourth longest river, the Bug, takes on a distinctly meandering character near Kamieńczyk and Wywłoka. It frequently forms islands, oxbow lakes, and bends, eroding the banks and creating escarpments along its course. This dynamic landscape provides an ideal habitat for the rich birdlife of the area. The river also offers stunning views, making it a popular destination for canoeing. Numerous rental shops, instructors, and canoeing organizers are available in the vicinity, making it easy for visitors to enjoy the river's beauty from the water.

Zieleniec

The tradition of hosting summer visitors in Zieleniec dates back to the interwar period. The village was established in the Kamieniecka Forest, within the Nadbużański Landscape Park. The area boasts a variety of attractions, including the Bug and Liwiec Rivers, the Kules Moor, and a landscape characterized by exposed dunes and coniferous forests.

Soon, we pass Świniotop and the Polish Loretto, a peaceful pilgrimage site tucked away in the forest. The route then crosses the national road at Pusta Łąki and heads toward Strachów. Following the course of the Liwiec River, we make a worthwhile detour to the village of Urle, where you can take a moment to descend to the river.

After passing the villages of Borzymy and Zawiszyn, we cross the Liwiec River once more and soon arrive at Łochów, known for its beautiful palace complex. From here, we head north, riding along the railway tracks for a while. The route continues through Łopianka, Majdan, Wieliczna, and Stoczek, before heading towards the final stretch, passing Grabiny and Mrozowa Wola, and finishing at the Sadowne Węgrowskie railway station.

Kamieńczyk

Kamieńczyk is a small village, once a thriving royal town at the confluence of the Liwiec and Bug rivers. Now a popular spot for tourists and canoeing enthusiasts, it also holds historical significance, with a Przeworsk culture cemetery discovered in the 1970s. A sculpture of a raftman in the market square honors the once-vital profession of river trade. Kamieńczyk is also known for its folk handicrafts, available at local agro-tourism farms.

Wooden church in Łochów

The church, originally serving the Wólka Dobryńska parish, was relocated to the Łochów Palace and Farm grounds in 2009 after extensive conservation. It is now open to the public. Nearby is the Island of Writers and Poets, a sculptural ensemble featuring statues of notable artists connected to the Podlasie region, including Józef Ignacy Kraszewski, Stefan Żeromski, Teofil Aleksander Lenartowicz, and Maria Dąbrowska.

Market

Pułtusk's Market Square, the longest cobblestone market square in Europe at nearly 400 meters, is surrounded by 18th- and 19th-century buildings with colorful facades. Commemorative plaques on the buildings and Town Hall honor figures and events like Wiktor Gomulicki's residence, Napoleon Bonaparte's visit, and the Great Flood. The square features notable landmarks, including the Gothic collegiate basilica of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary with its "Pułtusk vault," the Regional Museum with a unique meteorite specimen, and the Polonia Castle, all contributing to the city's rich history and culture.

Polonia Castle

The landmark of Pułtusk, the former bishops' castle, overlooks the Market Square and Narew River. Dating from the 14th to 16th century, it has been restored and now serves as the House of the Polish Diaspora, housing a hotel, restaurant, and conference center. The castle is historically significant for its damage during the Napoleonic Wars. On December 26, 1806, French forces fought a pivotal battle against the Russians near Pułtusk, and the town's name was inscribed on the Arc de Triomphe in Paris to mark the French victory.

After descending to Lipniki Nowe, we enjoy calm roads with little traffic. Past Moszyn and the small river Przewodka, the route turns west. At km 17.5, we turn left onto a dirt and gravel road heading south. The intimate, charming route, surrounded by forest, takes us to Lipniki Stare. After a crossroads, we turn left to the east, completing the last section of the route back to Pułtusk, along Słoneczna Street and Mickiewicza Street.

Sculptures of the book's characters

One of Pułtusk's notable residents was poet and novelist Wiktor Gomułicki, renowned for his book Wspomnienia niebieskiego mundurka (Memories of a Blue Uniform), which reflects on his childhood in the town. In 2020, a sculpture was created to honor Pułtusk's educational history, dating back to the establishment of a Kraków Academy branch in 1440. Placed in front of the local high school's two-winged gate, the sculpture depicts a scene inspired by Gomułicki's novel, celebrating the town's literary and academic heritage.

The post-Jesuit basements

The storage basements in Abraham's Hill have recently become an underground attraction of Pułtusk. In the 16th century, the Jesuit Order began building underground corridors here for food storage. Today, the basements, which are listed in the register of historical monuments and the exhibition 'Jesuits in Pułtusk and their heritage', can be visited by entering the underground from Balthazar Street.

Podkowa Leśna

Podkowa Leśna is a suburban town that embodies the concept of a Howardian garden city. Established in 1925 as a housing estate, its creation aimed to provide a respite from the industrialization of large cities. The town's design was crafted by the renowned Warsaw architect and urban planner Antoni Jawornicki. Just two years later, the first section of the 'Electric Access Railway' connecting Warsaw to Grodzisk was opened, further enhancing accessibility. The visionary behind Podkowa Leśna's establishment was Stanisław Lilpop, its largest shareholder. The town's charm lies in its modern architecture, elegant villas, and beautifully landscaped green spaces, making it a highly attractive location for new residents.

Mazovian Landscape Park

Located southeast of Warsaw, the Mazovian Landscape Park is an ideal destination for active holidays. The park is predominantly covered by forests, mostly coniferous, and features numerous peat bogs and marshes, making it a haven for various species of flora and fauna. Along the route near Otwock, you can find the picturesque Mszar Pogorzelski reserve, which protects a peat bog surrounded by dunes. Additionally, the Dąbrowiecka Góra Bunkers (Dąbrowiecka Górką fortress open-air museum) offer a glimpse into history, showcasing well-preserved military structures from World War I and World War II, adding a unique atmosphere to the park.

Cycling technique:

The first part of the trip from Radom to the Kozienice Landscape Park follows moderately busy asphalt roads, but requires precaution. The loop between the reserves runs on a beaten forest road, which should not cause any difficulties.

Route:

Radom has a well-developed network of bicycle and pedestrian paths, allowing cyclists to explore the city's main attractions, including the Jacek Malczewski murals and symbols of Radom's industry. The route leads through the forest stands of the Kociołki forestry in the area of the 'Royal Spring' Nature Reserve. It runs along the Zagożdżonka River. Specially constructed wooden platforms have been set up along the route to allow visitors to explore the riparian habitats of the reserve without any pressure on nature. The total length of the trail is about 3 km (adapted for people with disabilities), and it takes about 2-3 hours to walk all 12 thematic stops.

Route of Radom's symbols

The route features 19 life-size sculptures depicting products that made the city and its industry famous. These can be explored on foot or by bicycle. The carefully crafted casts include cigarettes from Radom's 'Tytoniówka' (Radomskie, Klubowe, Popularne), a Łuczniczka road racing bicycle, a gas cooker from the Radom Metal Products Factory 'Polmetal' (model 333), and tiles from the Ceramic and Cement Products Factory 'Marywil'.

Educational Centre of the State Forests. After less than 5 km, cyclists reach the border of the Ciszek Nature Reserve, known for its majestic fir and oak trees. The shaded route continues south, looping back to the Jedlnia Reserve. The trip can be started from the State Forest Centre, where bicycles are available for rent. The facility, located at the edge of the park, offers accommodation, food, and various relaxation options. Nearby natural attractions, like Januszko Lagoon, Brzeźniczka floodplain, and the Royal Springs path along the Zagożdżonka River, are accessible by bike.

Leniwka River

One of the picturesque, not very large rivers in the Kozienice Landscape Park. Following a wilderness section, it flows into the Radomka valley, just behind Stawy Grądy. In some places, the regulated riverbed leads through forest areas and wet meadows. At the level of Lewaszówka, the river demonstrates its natural face. You can still find the ruins of former mills which the Leniwka used to power.

Kozienice Forest

The Kozienice Forest, a vast forest complex spanning approximately 30,000 hectares between Radom and the Vistula River, is part of the Kozienice Landscape Park and includes 15 nature reserves. The oldest reserve, 'Zagożdżon,' is home to the Sigismund Augustus Oak, estimated to be up to 300 years old. The largest swamp complex in the region, covering nearly 26 hectares, is protected by the 'Ługi Helenowskie' Moors Reserve. The park features resting places, benches, and gazebos at many of its natural attractions.

- On the Siedlce-Warsaw line Mazovian Railways.
- Stop and rest: the glade Leśna Street (shelters and educational boards).
- Pumptrack at Muchawka reservoir (Mini Pump for children, more difficult Easy Pump).

Route:

The route starts in the western part of the city, in the Zamiejskie Piaski district, at the small junction of Harvest Street and Piaski Zamiejskie Street. Head south along an asphalt street with low-rise family houses and little car traffic, making it a relatively safe path. After crossing the level crossing at the Siedlce Zachodnie railway station, continue straight along Daszyńskiego Street, where car traffic increases. Turn onto Warszawska Street, which has a separated pedestrian and cycling route. Near the Hetman Spa Hotel, turn into Plażowa Street and head towards the Muchawka Reservoir, a popular local attraction with a sculpture made of Olympic wheels from the 1970s.

The route continues along a marked cycling and walking path past recreation and leisure facilities, including ice cream parlours, playgrounds, beaches, and a pump track. During high season, especially on weekends, the area is bustling with visitors, including cyclists. After passing the lagoon, ride through green areas and turn onto Zimowa Street, then onto Leśna Street. Upon entering the Sekulski Forest, the road becomes bumpy and tricky, especially after rain, so proceed with caution. Watch carefully for a left exit, as it's easy to miss. Continue along Grabianowska Street, which starts as a forest road, heading north-east until leaving the green areas behind and reaching the town center.

Aleksandra Ogińska – duchess of the Czartoryski family

The most famous resident of Siedlce, who settled here in the late 18th century, transformed the town into a cultural hub. She rebuilt the palace, originally built in 1730 by her grandfather, which now houses the University of Natural Sciences and Humanities, and helped create Aleksandria City Park, a modern space for recreation and cultural events.

El Greco in Siedlce

The Diocesan Museum is home to The Ecstasy of Saint Francis by El Greco, the most significant Spanish artwork in Poland. Thanks to restoration, visitors can fully appreciate the artist's talent. The museum also displays Uniates' art, sacred paintings, antique liturgical vestments, and craftsmanship, offering a deep dive into religious and historical art.

Before the railway tracks, turn right onto Składowa Street and follow the cycling route under the Łuków Viaduct through the tunnel. Continue along Buczyńska, Brzeska, Prymasa Wyszyńskiego, and Prusa Streets. On the left, pass Aleksandria City Park with the Ogiński Palace, a great spot to stop. Turn right onto Poniatowskiego Street, then continue straight through built-up areas and greenery until reaching Błonia. Finish the route by turning left and arriving at the Cross at Celebry Square.

Cross in Celebry Square

The Papal Cross was erected to commemorate John Paul II's apostolic visit in 1999. Standing 33 meters high with an 8-meter arm span, the monument is visible from a distance, especially at night thanks to its newly installed lighting. Benches are placed opposite the Cross, and a small parking area is located behind the young trees.

Beach on the Muchawka Reservoir

The lagoon quay has been beautifully developed, featuring a U-shaped pier next to a small white café. In addition to summer bathing, it is also a designated spot for winter swimming. The area is interwoven with footpaths and cycling routes, and there are plenty of playgrounds, playing fields, outdoor gyms, and barbecue areas.

Cycling technique:

The Łochów cycling route, also known as the Green Łochów Route, takes riders through scenic areas in the Łochów municipality and the Nadbużański Landscape Park. While some sections have sandy ground that can make cycling challenging, the stunning views of the Bug and Liwiec Rivers make the effort worthwhile. The route can be started from any point, with the village of Wywłoka in the northern part being a popular starting point. However, starting at the Łochów railway station is also convenient, especially for those using rail transport.

Practical:

- Ideal stop: the park by the Łochów Palace, a visit to a stylish restaurant, the beach on the Bug River at Jegiel Street, Szumin (no swimming due to the strong current), the Centre for Ecological Education in Kaliska.
- Start and end of the route at Łochów railway station with numerous connections, including Mazovian Railways.

Surface (approximately):

- unpaved: 31 km
- cobblestone: 779 m
- paved: 2 km
- asphalt: 12 km

Route:

At the Łochów railway station, we are greeted by a distinctive coat of arms featuring an elk on a green background. This symbol, along with the capital letter Ł, can be seen in many places around the municipality. From the station, we head south along 1 Maja Street, then turn onto Nowowiejska Street, which leads us towards the woods. We now face a stretch of around 14 km of predominantly sandy forest roads, with some asphalt sections passing through the villages of Baczki Fabryczne and Łopianka. The final stage of the trail brings us back to Łochów, where we reach the 19th-century palace and park complex, recently restored as part of the Folwark Łochów project. In the town, we follow Węgrowaska Avenue and Myśliwska Street. As we approach the meander of the Liwiec River, we leave the asphalt road and continue along the riverbank. We only briefly stray from the river twice, at Sosnowa Street and in Barchowo, during the long passage to the west. After crossing the railway bridge in Urle, the route heads north along the Liwiec River. We pass the villages of Kępa, Gromek, and Gniazdowo before reaching the vicinity of the Nadbużański Landscape Park. Here, it's worth stopping to explore the Liwiec Valley educational trail, a newly created attraction featuring educational boards and small wooden structures. The route, about one kilometre long, offers stunning views of local vegetation and bird habitats along the Liwiec River. The route continues to Pogorzelec, where we join National Road 62, which we leave at Puste Łąki. We then take a longer section north, passing through Loretto (home to Polish

Loretto Monastery

The village of Loretto, renamed in 1929, takes its name from the Shrine of the Holy House of Our Lady in Loreto, near Ancona, Italy. The shrine houses the walls of the House of Jesus and Mary, believed to have been brought from Jerusalem during the Crusades. Initially, a modest chapel was built in the woods at Polish Loretto, which was later replaced by a brick structure. As pilgrimage traffic increased, work began to expand the site. Over the following decades, a significant religious center was developed, surrounded by forest and pristine nature. Today, Loretto is home to a monastery, novitiate house, nursing home, retreat facilities, holiday accommodations, and colony buildings.

Łochów Palace

The Łochów Palace has been owned by several prominent Polish aristocratic families, including the Downarowicz and Zamoyski families. Its peak years coincided with the construction of the Paris-Petersburg railway line. Today, the palace has been meticulously rebuilt and restored by Arche S.A. Guests of the luxurious hotel complex can now admire the restored palace and its accompanying buildings, such as the palace kitchen, coach house, outbuildings, and the stone grotto. Among the notable monuments in the palace park is the historic wooden Church of the Divine Mercy, dating from the first half of the 20th century.

Łochów Forestry Husking Mill

A distinctive seed husking mill is located next to the main building of the Forestry Commission in Łochów. During educational classes, local foresters explain what a seed husking mill is and show what are the steps that a seed has to take before it can be sown.

Loretto, a notable stop) and Świniotop, before turning east and crossing the Liwiec River again. We pass the village of Rafa and follow the forest road east to a beautiful meander of the Bug River, where we enjoy several scenic stretches along the river. We then reach the car park in Szumina, Podleśna Street, a village popular with anglers. After passing the village buildings, we re-enter the forest, and before reaching Wywłoki, the route leads us along the edge of the Jegiel Reserve, named after the Kurpie word for spruce. From Wywłoki, we continue south along a forest road, heading back to the Łochów railway station after a 10 km loop.

Liwiec

The Liwiec, a picturesque left tributary of the Bug, flows into it at Kamieńczyk. This shallow, clean river meanders through pine forests, dunes, and marshes, creating sandy beaches ideal for summer recreation. It attracts hiking, cycling, and canoeing enthusiasts, as well as nature lovers.

Headquarters of the Nadbużański Landscape Park

The NLP authorities are based in the historic Julin Villa complex in Kaliska, recently modernized for schoolchildren with support from the Mazovian government. The main building, Paderewski Palace (1904), now houses the environmental education center. Educational boards surround the palace, and a path with a viewing footbridge over the Liwiec River has been created nearby.
